Hollywood shows how it's done

A Hollywood tale of two women, living more than 6,000 miles apart, who swap homes and discover adventure, might not be so far from the truth. Thanks to a home exchange website, Amanda leaves her stress in L.A. and flies to Iris' snow covered home in England's countryside. Iris traded Amanda for her place in sunny California.

In the film, The Holiday, released in December, HomeExchange.com gave the world a new look at vacationing from the story Amanda (Cameron Diaz) and Iris (Kate Winslet) shared on the big screen. In an unexpected turn of events, both women discover adventure. While Web sites like HomeExchange.com aren't necessarily a dating service, they are growing popular. LAKEHOM talked with a few that say The Holiday's scenario isn't too far from the truth.
